

The Beyontec Suite includes pre-defined reports based on your lines of business. All the information you enter in your transaction screens is collected and accessed by the reporting engine, making it easy and efficient to get the information you need to make decisions and manage your business.

During implementation of the Suite, you review all the available reports for your lines of business and select those that make the most sense for your company. As part of the implementation process, you may request changes to the reports you want — to add new elements or to see different aggregations. You may choose to have separate reports for different aggregations — or to have the aggregation criteria as an option to run the report. You may also request additional reports for a nominal fee, determined by their complexity.

Format Follows Function

You can generate reports in a number of file formats: PDF, Excel, CSV, XML, or Word. And you retain control over who sees which reports. You can make Commission and Sales Reports available to agents, Production Reports available to Marketing personnel, Loss Ratio and Quote to Policy Conversion Reports available to Underwriters, Claims Reserve Ageing Analysis reports to Claims adjustors, Financial Reports available to key management staff, and so on. That ensures the right people get the right information at the right time, making them more efficient and productive.

In addition, the Beyontec Suite's Reports Configuration Tool lets Business Analysts and others configure reports with no programming experience. They can create ad hoc reports, new reports, dashboards, charts, graphs, and more. They can add the reports they develop to the Reports Menu, and any of the Dashboards can be added to the Workbasket Screen. They can use charts and graphs in presentations and printed material — presenting data in whatever format suits the given business purpose.
